ABOUT PENN

Known as a place for discovery, innovation and revolutionary ideas, Penn is a mid-size, urban, Ivy League research institution located in Philadelphia. Penn's campus occupies the rare intersection where a supportive residential community meets the diversity and opportunity of an urban landscape. With both a strong foundation in the liberal arts and sciences, as well as robust exposure to research, Penn's educational experience is truly interdisciplinary in its nature and extends far beyond the classroom. Students will explore what interests them and work with faculty to create new knowledge.

ACADEMICS: ONE UNIVERSITY, FOUR SCHOOLS

The University of Pennsylvania is home to four undergraduate schools, 12 graduate schools and multiple coordinated dual degree, accelerated, and specialized programs. When applying to Penn, applicants are asked to choose one of the four undergraduate schools or a coordinated dual-degree, accelerated, or specialized program that will serve as home base throughout their academic journey. All students gain a strong foundation in the liberal arts and sciences and have the ability to take classes in all four schools.

TRANSFER DECISION applications due MARCH 15

FINANCIAL AID

Penn practices need-blind admissions for citizens and permanent residents of the U.S., Canada, and Mexico—so admission decisions are not affected by a family’s ability to pay.

$237 million was devoted to undergraduate aid for 2018-2019. $50,171 is the amount of financial aid, on average, awarded to aided freshmen in 2017. Penn is one of only a few universities that meets full demonstrated need with grant-based financial aid packages. Families should use our Net Price Calculator to review an estimate of their financial aid package and total cost of attendance.

When financial circumstance warrants, applicants are encouraged to request an application fee waiver. For more information, please visit the financial aid website: sfs.upenn.edu
